"Turkish Delight" summer study abroad program, July 15-30

Still looking for that perfect study abroad program this summer? Check out "Turkish Delight," a new program aimed directly at Mass Communication students. This program will take you to exotic Istanbul, Ankara and Cappadocia, Turkey, before transporting you to London for a final five days. It will be led by Manship Professor Bob Mann, who will be joined by Emeritus Professor Jay Perkins. Both are veterans of overseas travels and are intimately familiar with the locations. This program will operate from July 15 to 30, plus you have the option of travel on your own, before or after the program. The cost is only $3,000 and covers all your hotels, fancy dinners, transportation in Europe, activities, entrance fees, etc., in both countries. You'll have the opportunity to earn six mass communication credits. You are responsible for paying your tuition to LSU and for paying for your flight to and from Europe. Information sessions will be held on Feb. 26 and Feb. 27 at 4:30 p.m. in Hodges 236. Questions? Just contact Bob Mann at bobmann@lsu.edu or at225-578-2053.
